NONNO BANTER 57 APS - Giochi di Strada [GRANDPA BANTER 57 – Street Games] is an association established by Walter Turci, a lifelong carpenter, along with a group of volunteers from Meldola, a small town not far from Bologna.

We make wooden toys, mainly out of reclaimed materials, to promote environmental sustainability. Our toys make people socialize and spend quality time playing together.

Parents and educators are concerned by the decrease of manual play among young people. Wooden toys offer crucial benefits to the physical, cognitive, social, and emotional development of children, enhancing their self-esteem way more than virtual games would do.

Thus, it is essential to promote the use of natural and sustainable materials to foster healthy and balanced growth.
